

Offering a wide range of treatments and services for common conditions affecting males

- Erectile dysfunction (ED)
The inability to get or keep an erection. Treatments include medication, hormone replacement therapy, and penile implants or pumps.
- Low testosterone
An evaluation of symptoms and a blood test to measures testosterone level. Treatments include injections, gels or creams, and oral medications.
- Benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH)
Enlarged prostate. A number of treatments can shrink swelling and/or enlarge the urethra to increase urine flow
- Urinary incontinence
Loss of bladder control. Treatable with surgery, lifestyle changes, related BPH treatments, and medications
- Prostate cancer screening
Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and ultrasound (US) have benefits over other methods Enables easier and earlier detection
- Male infertility
The inability to conceive a child after one year of unprotected intercourse. Treated with surgery, medication, and/or lifestyle changes
- Peyronie's disease
Caused by scar tissue inside the penis, resulting in a bent penis during erection. Treatments include surgical procedures and injections
- Vasectomy reversal
Surgery to reverse a previous procedure that blocked sperm from reaching semen. Recovery takes about a week.

Visit uabmedicine.org/menshealth for more information or to make an appointment.